

Death of D. J. Campbell, Pioneer Resident of Macleod

In the death of Duncan John D'Urban Campbell at a late hour on Tuesday night last Macleod loses one of her oldest and most respected old-timers, and one of Southern Alberta's prominent figures for the past thirty-eight years, since he first came to Macleod.

The late Duncan John D'Urban Campbell was born in St. Hilaire, in the province of Quebec, in 1855, where he resided until 1882, when he came west and took up his residence in Macleod. Upon his arrival at Macleod he accepted a position with the firm of Ford & Stewart. In 1883 Mr. Campbell was appointed postmaster, being Macleod's first postmaster. He continued in this appointment until 1904. Mr. Campbell held the office of sheriff of the judicial district of Macleod from 1887 until 1910.

The late Mr. Campbell was also connected with the militia department, from which he retired with the rank of colonel in the C. M. R's. He saw service in the rebellion of 1885, when he was in charge of the Mounted Rangers.

During the later years of his life Mr. Campbell was engaged in the real estate and life insurance business in which he was active until he was taken sick about a month ago.

Mr. Campbell was one of the few private citizens in the Dominion of Canada who was privileged to entertain the Prince of Wales during his tour of Canada last year, it being at Mr. Campbell's home that the Prince and his suite took luncheon during the royal visit to Macleod.

Mr. Campbell is mourned by his wife, his daughter Lola, and two sons Archibald Bruce and Charles, and a great number of personal friends in Macleod and district.

The funeral service will take place in Christ Church, Macleod on Thursday afternoon, May 20th, at four o'clock, after which the body will be sent east to Montreal for interment.

Presentation to C. W. Hutchins

A very pleasant little function took place last Thursday in the office of the Bank of Montreal when, previous to his departure for Estevan, Mr. C. W. Hutchins was presented with a solid silver cigarette stand and match holder, by the members of the staff at the bank. The presentation was made by Mr. W. Forsythe, the accountant who expressed the regret at losing Mr. Hutchins, with whom they had so pleasantly worked during the past four and a half years, and he asked Mr. Hutchins to accept a little gift as token of their appreciation and good will. Mr. Hutchins made a brief reply thanking the staff not only for their gift but for their hearty co-operation during the time he had been with them.

HOSPITAL AID

The regular monthly meeting of the Hospital Ladies' Aid will be held in the Methodist Church Hall on Tuesday, May 25th, at 4 p.m.

Hospital to Close unless $300 per month is assured

The meeting called by the Mayor to consider the Hospital situation met in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening. There was not a large number present, but those who were there were keenly interested in the subject.

Mayor Fawcett was in the chair, and opened the meeting by giving an outline of the events that had taken place regarding the Hospital during the past two years. He referred to the fact that the question of closing the Hospital came up last year, but in order to keep the institution open the Town assumed the liabilities and paid the accounts, and so kept it running. This year the Board came to the Council asking assistance, but unfortunately this year the Town was not in a position to help, and up on the advice of the Council the chairman of the Board had given the staff notice that their services might not be required after May 31st.

The chairman of the Board, A. T. Leather, read a statement showing that in order to pay salaries and accounts due on June 1st $3,160 was required, and another $300 per month was required to keep the institution open and to carry on. It was also pointed out that under the present system, or in other words, unless the Hospital was made into a Municipal Hospital, supported by a Municipal Hospital District, it cannot pay its way because its income can never meet its expenditure. In 1919 the average cost to the Board per patient per day was $3.81; the average income from the patients was $2.25 per patient per day, and the prices of necessities had risen to nearly double what it was last year. There is no hope for an increase in the revenue from the patients, as the rates are high enough now, in fact it was stated that the present rates were in some cases preventing people from using the Hospital who would otherwise do so.

The average number of patients during last year was six per day per month, which is by no means the capacity of the institution.

The only hope in the situation is the formation of a Hospital District. The necessary petitions were signed, the boundaries of the district marked, and all that remains to be done is for the government to make arrangements as to when the vote is to be taken. Mr. Leather announced that several attempts had been made to get into touch with the health department in Edmonton, but that they could get no reply. At any rate it would probably be five or six months before the building could be handed over to the new board, and the question is what is to be done in the meantime.

Chairman Leather said that the Board could not carry on after May 31st, because whatever was done, there was still the $3,160.00 to be met, and which must be met, and which will become a charge on the Town, but as a ratepayer he would apply for an injunction against the Town to prevent it increasing this liability any more, and Councillor Morris agreed with this.

The unanimous feeling of the meeting was that it was highly desirable that the Hospital should be kept open if possible, but it was decided that the institution will have to be closed on May 28th unless there is assured to the Board either in cash

An Appreciation: Bay Anniversary & Entertainment

Western Canada has been highly favored by the Hudson's Bay Company in bringing before many who may not know, much about the great west in the great past. City after city has had the Hudson's Bay Pageant and, business men in every department of life have shown a good sporting spirit in entering into the Hudson's Bay scheme—old times brought up to date—where is the man who cannot enjoy such a resume of history and admire such practical progress during 250 years.

Scotch and English braved perils known and unknown; pierced remote places of the great west, and now in Canada's last hinterlands—the Peace River Country—we see their high standard of trading, the work of pioneer peaceful conquest; what a contrast of trade relationship based on blood by other concerns in other countries. Side by side with pioneers of later date we have the scarlet and gold of the R.N.W. M.P.s, men of iron repute and culture, men whom Western Canada will never forget, alas only a few of them remain with us today whom we salute with great respect.

What a great stride from log buildings with the Union Jack flying before the western winds (indicating a Hudson's Bay Company Fur Trading Post), to large up to date stores; from the lonely solitudes to teeming cities; from the silence of mountains, broken only by the howl of wild game, to the activity and bustle of the modern commercial centres.

The Company did not overlook one of the oldest towns in the west when they invited clients, friends and children to the local theatre as their guests for an afternoon and evening's entertainment.

A royal time it was—children availed themselves of it in a fashion all their own, to be met by the Hudson's Bay Staff at the close who presented each child with a souvenir.

The theatre at 7.30 and 9.30 was packed—no standing room—to enjoy the kindness of the company. It certainly was an appreciative response from the public. All through the evening the large audiences were favored with a programme of sustained interest and merriment, it being almost impossible to differentiate regarding the excellence of the individual items.

On every hand expressions of delight were conveyed to the local manager and staff committee, who spared no effort in their endeavour to give their friends, the Public, a pleasant and original form of entertainment that will be long remembered.

or notes acceptable to the bank, an income of $300 per month for the next six months, and in the meantime every effort will be made to get the department of health to move in the matter of getting the hospital district formed and the assurance given that the vote will be taken immediately. The Secretary of the Board was instructed to wire Edmonton daily if necessary till he got a reply, and to report to an adjourned meeting to be held next Tuesday. A committee was also appointed to canvas the town and see what could be done in getting financial assistance to enable the Board to carry on. This committee also to report to the next meeting. The committee named were: Rev. W. A. Lewis, Rev. J. Kennedy, Rev. J. Merrick, A. D. Ferguson, A. F. Grady and John Chisholm. If the committee is successful in getting the necessary financial assistance pledged before next Tuesday night the Hospital will be kept open. In this connection it may be said that A. T. Leather stated that he had received one offer over the phone of $150.00.

The situation is this: If the $300 per month necessary is not in sight by next Tuesday the Hospital will close its doors.

Macleod Students in University Exams.

The results of the recent examinations at the University of Alberta were published on Saturday, and among those who were successful are the names of three students who are well-known in Macleod, Miss Bessie and Elmsly Gardiner, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. E. Gardiner figure high in the list. Elmsly taking honors in chemistry.

Miss Margaret Stephenson was also successful in passing. All three were at one time students in the Public School at Macleod.

Hudson's Bay Staff Entertains

The manager and staff issued about 140 invitations to a social evening which was held in the Veterans' Hall on Friday evening last. The Hall was very tastefully decorated in the Company's colors, purple and gold, and draped with flags and wreaths, and every provision was made for the comfort of the guests by an arrangement of chairs and lounges.

As soon as the guests had assembled Mr. L. R. Barnett in a few well chosen words gave them a hearty welcome in the name of the staff.

For those who preferred dancing the main floor of the hall was prepared and excellent music was furnished by Cutler's orchestra, and the "light fantastic" was indulged in until supper time.

For those who did not dance, card tables were provided and about 20 sets joined in a friendly game of whist. Two prizes were offered one for ladies and one for gentlemen. The ladies prize was won by Mrs. W. Charlton and the gentlemen by Mr. R. G. Butchart.

Round about midnight came the welcome call to supper, which was served in the Silver Grill and a gay company sat down to a sumptuous spread which was thoroughly enjoyed and pronounced the best supper ever served in Macleod. At the close of supper Mr. A. D. Ferguson very fittingly voiced the sentiments of the guests in a few words of thanks to the Hudson's Bay staff for the very delightful evening they had spent together. After supper the guests again resumed their dancing which was indulged in until "the wee sma' hours of the morning" which with the presentation of the whist prizes by Mr. L. R. Barnett brought the evening to a most successful conclusion.

"Bumping Into Broadway"

(First of the New Two-Reel Harold Lloyd Comedies Released by Pathe)

The reviewer saw two of the two-reel Lloyd comedies before he viewed "Bumping Into Broadway," which happened to be first scheduled for release. They both registered heavily and this one scores 100 per cent. Mr. Lloyd has "Snub" Pollard and Bebe Daniels with him in this one and it is elaborately mounted. He is a refreshingly original comedian who does not have to indulge in vulgarities or the slap stick to get his stuff over.

The star appears in "Bumping Into Broadway" as a would-be playwright and after being kicked out of the manager's office he meets the chorus girl behind the scenes.

Later he sees the girl getting into a limousine with a man and he rides with them by inserting himself on the extra tire at the rear of the car. Their destination is a swell gambling house and the comedian somehow manages to get by the doorkeeper. While standing outside the circle of a group surrounding a roulette table, he finds a bill on the floor and after trying in vain to pry his way into the crowd to return the bill to its owner he tosses it over the heads of the people and it lands on number 13.

Yes, number 13 wins and then repeats itself enough so that the bank is "busted." As the piles of money are forced on the comedian the place is raided and from then on the fun is fast and furious.

Funny comedy offering that will score with the high brows as heavily as it will with the masses. Many are injected by Mr. Lloyd which mark him as absolutely original.—Tom Hamlin.

Hudson's Bay Pageant in Calgary

One of the most remarkable events in the history of Canada has taken place during the past week namely the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the Hudson's Bay Company, this unique event has been celebrated with fitting ceremony in all the large centres in the west. Calgary's celebration was staged on Wednesday last, and consisted of a monster procession, the like of which had never been seen in the city before. The procession was heralded, by mounted heralds dressed in all the elaborate regalia befitting the dignity of their office as in the brave old days of long ago. There were the old inhabitants of the plains the red men, bare bodomed, and in war paint, Little Bull and Sarsce Woman the oldest of their tribe, little papooses and brave young bucks all making holiday in honor of "The Great Company". There were also the old Red River carts, these slow cumbersome means of locomotion, contrasted strongly with the fastest production of our automobile factories. There were the "Mounties" so long known as the guardians of the peace through the west; and there were the "boys" in khaki who so lately returned from facing danger and death for their country's honor. Every phase of Canada's industry, and Canada's history with which the Hudson's Bay Company is so vitally connected, was portrayed on magnificent floats, presenting a scene which will long live in the memory of every person who was privileged to see it.

The post of honor was occupied by Lieut. Governor Brett and Sir Robert Kindersley, the Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, who had come especially from England to take part in the anniversary celebrations. To show how closely the ancient and modern touched each other on that eventful day, Capt. McCall ascended above the procession in his aeroplane, and gracefully dropped a leather case at the feet of Sir Robert Kindersley, the leather case contained an illuminated address from the citizens of Calgary to the Governor of the Company. The procession wended its way to Victoria Park where the address of welcome was read by Mayor Marshall, to which Sir Robert Kindersley gave a fitting reply.

The proceedings closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Macleod was represented at the Anniversary Celebration by L. R. Barnett, manager of the Company's Store in this town, and W. Stewart, manager of the Hardware Department; and Mr. Ed. Maunsell, of Macleod, was also present by invitation as being one of the original 1874 contingent of the R. N. W. M. P. He and Colonel Walker, another '74 man, rode at the head of the police section of the procession.

You'll Long Remember This

It is "Hit or Miss" the New World Picture Starring Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley

Here's a picture you will long remember. It is "Hit or Miss," the new World Picture starring Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley which will be shown on Monday and Tuesday, May 24-25, at the Empress Theatre.

"Hit or Miss" is another of those delightful comedy dramas in which Mr. Blackwell and Miss Greeley have been making such enormous hits with motion picture patrons everywhere. It is even better than some of their other famous successes—"The Beloved Blackmailer," "By Hook or Crook," "Love in a Hurry," etc. The story was written by Harry O. Hoyt who has penned a number of other World successes and in this picture he has written one of the very best stories he has to his credit.

"Hit or Miss" is a picture that will be thoroughly enjoyed by all those who see it.

At the recent meeting of the Pincher Creek council it was decided to notify the liquidator to remove the machinery from the mill, and to call for tenders for taking down the building at so much per thousand feet.

One of the highest trestle bridges on the continent will soon be no more as the contractors are busy taking down the bridge at Mountain Mills.

Macleod Tennis Club Makes Good Start

There was a large turn-out of tennis enthusiasts on Monday night when a meeting was held in Mr. H. C. Winter's office for the purpose of re-organizing the club and electing officers for the present season.

It was decided to put the courts in good shape and a very pleasant season is anticipated. All who are interested in the game should hand in their names to the secretary as soon as possible.

The officers for the 1920 season are:

President, W. Embury.
Vice-Pres., H. C. Winter.
Sec.-Treas., Miss H. A. Watson.
Committee, Miss A. Benson, C.R. Hill, G. R. Johnston.

School Jottings

Mr. A. J. Watson, Inspector of High Schools spent Tuesday and Wednesday of last week in the High School. He met the school board on Tuesday night and discussed various matters of interest with the board.

Promotions from Grade IX to X will be made on the recommendation of the Principal and it is quite possible the same course will be pursued in regard to grade X.

Miss Atkinson and Miss Derach have accepted the offer of the board for next year and will again be found on the Public School staff. Other members of the staff have been offered re-engagement and will it is hoped decide to remain here.

The High School Basket Ball Team is contemplating a visit to Lethbridge in the near future.

Departmental examinations will begin June 21st, so that it behoves all candidates to be up and doing. Macleod High School has six grade XI and four grade XII candidates writing.

Confidential reports of all candidates' standing are required to be furnished the Department before June 30th.

Some of the old maids in our school are so fond of cats, they bring them to school.

The girls met the boys in a baseball game on Tuesday—as usual the girls won—the score being 10-0. Clarence played a splendid game for the girls. (He pitched for the boys).

The C.G.I.T. are going on a hike on Wednesday. Oh you weenies!

Mud hole parties are very popular now.

Grade XII made H. S. Monday. We all thought the egg had been kept too long.

Tenders for cars will be gratefully received, as the Basket Ball Team are contemplating a game at Lethbridge, and they'd just as soon ride as walk.

White things are becoming popular once more. That is, some are white and others were.

"The Rescuing Angel"

Paramount Presents Shirley Mason in a Sparkling Comedy by Clare Kummer.

A delightful characterization of a fickle woman, who, in one day, accepts and declines proposals, marries and seeks a divorce, changing her mind with startling subtleties, its charm from Shirley Mason's lively interpretation of the leading role. There is skill shown in every department—skill of construction, of direction and of impersonation by a well-selected cast. There is a tendency to theatricalism toward the close, but it is easily forgiven in view of the fact that "The Rescuing Angel" as a whole will please all kinds of spectators.—See it to-night or to-morrow at the Empress.

The next referendum in this province will be upon bone dry prohibition and nothing else, nothing more and nothing less. That might as well be understood now, and then no person will be deceived by the result.

Macleod, May 14th, 1920
The Editor,
Macleod Times,
Macleod, Alta.,

Dear Sir:—
May I venture to again request the use of your columns, my only excuse being the general interest in the subject to be dealt with viz; the work of the U. F. A. Feed Committee. So many and varied have been the questions that have arisen, that the matters at issue can only be briefly dealt with, even in a lengthy letter, but a fully advertised meeting will be held after seeding, when the accounts, minutes and correspondence will be presented for the fullest investigation, which no one will have more reason to welcome than the committees.

Before proceeding further I should like to make clear the connection of the U. F. A. store with the feed question. The committee in charge was appointed by the Macleod U. F. A. Local and are subject to the jurisdiction of that body. The Local has no voice in or control over the affairs of the U. F. A. store, or vice-versa. These being two distinct organizations. An arrangement was entered into between the Feed Committee and the management of the store, whereby the premises and staff, were placed at the disposal and under the control of the former, for the purpose of acting as local agents in the handling and distribution of feed. The store has not bought or sold one pound of hay, green feed, or straw during the past winter, nor has a dollar of its funds used for this purpose. Nor has any transactions of this nature entered into its books or accounts. The trustees or the shareholders have had no voice in, nor have incurred any responsibility for any action of their employees while engaged in duties pertaining to the sale and securing of feed. Their actions in this respect being subject only to the feed committee, who must, and are prepared to assume the responsibility, within reason, for any action taken by themselves or their employees, with one exception, that of Mr. McDonald, who was appointed by the unanimous vote of one of the best attended and most representative meetings of farmers ever held in Macleod. Most of the troubles that have arisen would have been avoided had we had our usual fall weather. During the first three months of operations, which should have been the most fruitful, it was only possible to work on about fifteen days of this period. Finally work had to be abandoned at Watson. Much, in fact most of the feed secured at that point, being spoiled. Fresh plans had to be hastily adopted and new operations of a different nature commenced at many various points. Certificates had to be transferred and new ones rushed to required stations. The situation was further aggravated by the increased strain and demand created by the earliness and severity of the winter here. When these facts are considered there should be no reason for wonder that confusion and delay should have resulted in the filling of orders.

Next to this I would place as a source of trouble, the regulations governing the use of free shipping certificates. In effect these practically took the control out of our hands. The only possible way by which equality and satisfaction could have been achieved in distribution would have been to have had all cars consigned directly and solely to the feed-purchasing committee and allowed them to allot them in proper order. This the regulations absolutely prohibited. It should be borne in mind that these were framed, apparently, more to protect the government and railroad companies against abuse of this privilege than with the point in view of facilitating shipments, least of all through an association. Another fact, in connection with these, that made for confusion and delay, was the necessity of calling in the certificates when it was necessary to change the shipping point, forward them back to Edmonton, and have new ones issued.

Another factor, in creating trouble was incompleteness of, and mistakes made in the preliminary organization of the association; many details were overlooked because of inexperience and lack of knowledge of the situation that was to arise on the part of anyone. Too heavy a burden was placed on the committee. Provision should have been made in the estimate of cost for the employment of a manager or superior, able to devote all his time to and keep in touch with the work at both shipping and receiving points. Much trouble has been due to a lack of co-ordination and co-operation between these. Where we have not had our own shipping agent stationed there has been absolutely none and where there was much has been left to be desired. Such an appointee should not have been tied to any particular duty but should have exercised a general supervision and been free to go wherever his services were required. A personal visit would no doubt have straightened out the tangle in the order of hay shipments from Le Pas which letters and messages failed to do. Also the dissatisfaction over the failure to fill all orders for hay at that point would possibly have been avoided. Just here let me say that any failure to fill orders has not been due to the purchase of an insufficient quantity of feed as has been charged. Had all the feed been shipped that has been bought, we could have more than filled twice the number of orders. In this particular case it was in part due to the transfer of unfilled straw certificates from Watson to Le Pas, which should have been sent back here and filled by green feed shipments. Mr. Macdonald acted for the best according to his understanding of conditions, but had there been some one in charge with knowledge of all the situation, another course would likely have been taken. There have been cases, where two or more certificates have been placed for parties at different points and for reasons over which we have had no control, no feed has been secured for them. In such a case the supervisor could have lifted the certificate and personally placed it against a car on track, without being liable to a charge of unfairness, even if the certificate of a more successful applicant was displaced temporarily. It may be asked why was such an appointment not made by the committee. The funds did not allow it on the close margin allowed, and at the beginning the need was not foreseen, nor could the committee with the time at their disposal, personally oversee all the details.

A mistake was made in the organization in that no provision was made for dealing with shortages and cars below average quality. Either it should have been settled that the responsibility of the committee ended with the placing of the certificate, or a fund should have been provided to meet these as they arose. In all fairness these charges should fall equally on all. Past experience teaches that the chances of securing adjustments are slim, nor is there any way whereby payment can be avoided if the shipper insists on a settlement, short of allowing it to go into court. This applies equally whether car is unloaded before payment of the draft or not. In the former case payment can be temporarily delayed. Most people appear to think that the committee should have assumed this liability. The committee are under no delusion as to who would have to bear the greater part of any deficit that might occur, and the margin allowed for expenses to already overburdened with many charges that could not be foreseen. We have had to meet demurrage, switching charges and where payment could be avoided, shortages, etc. and for our protection we were forced to withhold part of the deposit until we knew the result of the final settlement. In my opinion a mistake was made in considering the initial payment as a deposit to be repaid when a car was turned over. The position was this, five men were appointed to conduct a business with a turnover of around $60,000 in six months, on a very close margin, with no capital paid in to work on, or serve as protection against losses, with not even a bank credit as working capital. In the very nature of things the deposits had to be used as capital, or operations could not have been commenced. Preliminary expenses were incurred, deposits had to be made on feed. Is there any reason why because one man was so fortunate as to secure a car of feed in October that he should have been permitted to withdraw his portion of the working capital at that time, while the man who did not secure his until February or not at all had to furnish it for the longer period. Had the deposit been considered as capital rather than as an initial payment on feed, it would have created a fund sufficient to take care of the shortages as they occurred, and any balance left on hand, plus any possible amount received for adjustments distributed at the completion of operation according to contribution and thus one fruitful cause of trouble to those engaged in handling feed would have been removed.

These are some of the many factors that have been a source of trouble, but as this letter is already too long, in conclusion I will say that any troubles that have arisen are not due to favoritism or wilful neglect, but are due in great part to the fact, that under the conditions, those that were engaged therein were set an impossible task. To those, who will think otherwise, I may say that at least no blame should be attached to the U. F. A. or U. F. A. store as such.

If there is any thing good in these organizations they should not be condemned or refused support, because a few men may have fallen down on their jobs. If this is the case, remove them and carry on the work.
Thanking you for use of so much of your space.

Yours truly,
W. H. Shield, Sec.

Conditions in Ireland are reported to have astounded members of the British commons when they listened to an official report the other day. Already more than two million dollars' worth of damage has been done to police property, while there have been forty murders since January without a single conviction. It is about time Ireland was getting real rule of some sort.

The Liberal party in Britain seems to be badly split up, with neither party knowing just where to go. But this is only temporary. Liberalism in Britain and other countries has often suffered such troubles and righted itself. That is the way of Liberalism.

A young Canadian with a $10 bank account pretty nearly put over a vessel deal involving half a million, working with no other capital than his brains and the ten spot. What would have happened to him if he had succeeded can never be known. He might have become notorious.

Boys and Girls Interested School Fair

There will be sixteen school fairs and approximately 5,000 students competing in the school fairs of Southern Alberta alone this year, so that you see that combined with family it is a very large sphere of influence.

The students have been furnished with the following varieties free by the Department of Agriculture—

through the Claresholm School of Agriculture:—

Vegetables—Beet, early blood red; carrot, Chantenay; parsnip, Guernsey; mangles, long red; Swede turnip, early purple top; peas, stratagem; sunflower, mammoth Russian; potatoes, gold coin and Wee McGregor.

Flowers—Sweet peas, Calliopsis and pansies.

All the centres have been urged to put on a competition in plot areas of sunflowers, in order to stimulate and interest all in the coming forage crop for Southern Alberta. We want to see a silo on every farm in Southern Alberta, the general introduction of intertilled forage crops to take the place in part at least of our expensive fallow, prevent soil drifting and if possible prevent the repetition of this disastrous feed shortage, which has paralyzed the agricultural industry and business as well and meant a loss of millions of dollars to the south country and an irretrievable loss to the livestock industry for years to come.

The school fair functions in many ways for the betterment of agriculture and the community. It introduces the best varieties of vegetables, flowers, grains, incites a co-operative spirit between the teachers, parents, children and different schools in the community, brings the business men and farmers together in committee work, and above all the school fair is the most potent agency in agricultural education in that it is creating an interest in agriculture in the minds of our youth and so is doing much to help solve one of our great national problems i.e. to keep our boys and girls on the farms and prevent this 'city ward' movement, which is no longer a menace, but a real danger to our young nation.

The school fair tends to break down the greatest of all hindrances indifference. It has undergone a severe testing and has proven to be a most potent factor in bringing the school and the home into closer relationship and more sympathetic co-operation.

lationship and more sympathetic co-operation.

The co-operation of the whole community is necessary to a continued success in school fair work, but the active interest and sympathetic attention of the teacher are absolutely essential if the true educational value of the work is to be conserved.

And what does the school fair mean to the children? Without doubt it is the best day of the year. It is their day, for weeks and months they have been preparing their exhibits from the garden and the great outdoors. They have been practising spelling, reading, singing and at last everything is ready for the fair. With happy faces, shining eyes and busy tongues they are driven in decorated waggons, buggies, democrats and autos to the chosen centre. While the judging of exhibits is in progress, the athletic contests are the centre of attraction, and this seems to introduce the pupils from one school district to those of another, and for the rest of the day there are no strangers.

What a scene! One little fellow discovers he has a prize for his collection of weeds. His eyes sparkle with excitement and he exclaims "Oh Look! Where is mother?" He must show mother, and then with justifiable pride, mother's eyes brighten too, and together they continue the search for more delightful surprises.

The foreign problem too, is met successfully. One gentleman, who came to Canada years ago from Austria, and who now possesses a good Canadian home and prosperous farm, but whose knowledge of English was still very meagre, was asked his opinion of it all. "Fine," he said, "good work, good schools, good teachers. My boy speaks English good now, good country, good everything." No further comment is necessary.

The school fair, brings to the foreign children an opportunity which is almost unique, of acquiring, in the most pleasant way, a knowledge and understanding of other races than their own. This cannot fail to have an influence on the parents and must contribute much to the making of the Canadian nation in the future.

Another splendid feature of the school fair movement is that it is chiefly dependent for its success and support upon local enthusiasm and initiative.

Business men and public spirited citizens are beginning to recognize in the movement a new and promising idea and are working together for its promotion. Thus we find bankers willing to finance the livestock end of the fair, accepting a promise to pay, on the part of the boy making the loan as the sole security. The business training and the contact with the business men brought about in this way cannot fail to lead to a fuller comprehension of business affairs, on the part of the young people engaging in these activities.

The value of the work of the children will easily be realized. No boy or girl can carry on a project lasting several months and faithfully carry out all that pertains to it without having interest stimulated to a high degree. He or she cannot plough and prepare the soil, or care for the poultry, pigs, calf or colt, or make a garment or bake a loaf of bread, go through the process of canning fruit and vegetables, or select seeds and fertilizers, combat insects and diseases, or clean up the back yard prior to gardening operations, without learning to take bravely discouragements, due to climate, or other causes, without recognizing the need of co-operation relationships; without learning lessons in community work. They will be spurred on by the competitive spirit, will be more keen and observant.

Boys and girls learn to work, to observe, to discriminate, to co-operate, to describe what they do, they learn business methods, they learn to weigh and balance things according to real values; they are encouraged to read and discuss; they are broadened by their contact with judgment, they come to the age of eighteen or nineteen, able to do something with a knowledge of how and confidence that they can do it.

Although there will be 16 school fairs held in Southern Alberta alone this year and approximately 5,000 children will take part, school fair work is only in its initial stages in Alberta and the future has tremendous possibilities. The key to success is community co-operation.

The School Fair for Macleod will be held in conjunction with the Macleod, Agricultural Society's Annual Fair August 4 and 5.

One of the features of the offering presented by Khaym, the Mystery Man of India, which will be at the Empress Theatre for two days commencing Wed. May 26 is Yvonne La-Raine, whose billing states that she is the family pet. This little lady offers a series of child impersonations which depict the child attributes and character. This little lady's presentation is a unique diversion interspersed as it is between the two parts of occult phenomena.

This is only one of the features that will be offered. The main drawing card is, without a doubt, Khaym's original interpretation of telepathy or thought transmission. Advance reports indicate that this man is presenting one of the most baffling demonstrations of psychic research that theatre goers will ever have a chance to witness.

Al. G. Barnes Circus Coming

On Friday, June 11th, the celebrated Al. G. Barnes Circus is billed to appear in Macleod. This circus carries one of the largest aggregations of wild and tame performing animals in the North American continent, among which are lions, tigers, leopards, jaguars, pumas, bears, monkeys, elephants, camels, hippopotami, rhinoceri, giraffes, ostriches, etc., etc. Every animal an actor—every act an animal act and wonderful animal feats will be witnessed at each performance. There are in all 1,200 performing animals, and 103 animal acts. In addition to this there are 550 dancing and performing horses and ponies, and the great concern as it travels through the country consists of two big special trains of 20 cars each. There are 600 people with the show, including 110 animal trainers, 40 animal clowns and 6 big concert bands.

There will be a monster street parade at 10.30 in the forenoon, and the big show starts at 1 for the afternoon performance and at 7 for the evening performance.

President Issues Campaign Call

President Wilson in a telegram to the Democratic leaders of Oregon, has issued a call to the Democratic party to go into the campaign standing four square for the treaty of Versailles, and against the senate's reservations. Declaring that the party had "the honor of the nation" in its hands, the president said that reservations were "inutterably incompatible with that honor, as well as destructive of the role of world leadership which the United States must assume."

The only true Americanism, the president said, was "that which puts America at the front of free nations and redeems the great promises which were made to the world."

Shortage of Wheat

From all the evidence obtainable at this stage it seems certain that the area sown to wheat in western Canada this year will be very much below that of 1919. Statements of correspondence to the Calgary Herald indicate that the wheat acreage for 1920 will be from twenty to thirty per cent. lower, and reports are of the same nature. The seeding season here is so late and the ground is in such condition that sowing of wheat is a great hazard. Farmers are taking the "safety first" route, and are putting in larger acreage of the coarser grains.

But, unfortunately, the condition is not peculiar to western Canada. In the United States government reports have already told of a lessened wheat acreage and poor indications for the winter crop. In Australia there is the same story of shortened crop prospect. Evidently there will not be any surplus of wheat on the world market at the end of the 1920 season, and, as the world demand for wheat will continue just as vigorous as now there can be but one result.

Wheat prices according to present prospects are going to stand high, and may, indeed, soar to heights as yet undreamed of. That will be fine business for the farmers lucky enough to have wheat. It will be bad for those who have sown substitute crops, and who come through with them all right. If wheat is very scarce the value of the substitutes is bound to increase in proportion. The crop season for Alberta this year promises to be a gamble, no matter how one takes it. The thing for the farmer to do is to play the game like a true sport and take chances on the result. As the outlook now appears he can not be a great loser, no matter what he plants.

Incidentally the wheat situation is such that a continuance of the Wheat Purchasing Board over the 1920 crop season would seem to be good business. The recent statement of Chairman Stewart, covering the operations of the board for 1919 should remove ground for criticism, while the fact that other governments are continuing their wartime system of wheat purchasing is a factor in the game not to be overlooked. We imagine the government will not find much opposition to a proposal to continue the board in office for at least another year.—Calgary Herald.

ENGLISH POT ROAST

REQUISITES:—1 No. 1 Pot Roast, purchased at any of our markets, 1 oz. Burns' Shamrock Lard or 1 oz. Burns' Refined Beef Dripping, 1 Carrot sliced, 1 Onion sliced.

RECIPE:—Use a regular braising pan, and when the lard or dripping is well heated place the pot roast in the pan and leave until thoroughly browned; add one sliced carrot and one sliced onion. The addition of peppers or bay leaf lends a very pleasing flavor. When thoroughly braised, stir in two tablespoonsful of flour and add 1½ pints boiling water, and let simmer for 1½ hours, when it is ready to serve.

N.B.—We are indebted for this receipt to Mr. L. Cunningham, Chef at the Empire Hotel, Calgary. Mr. Cunningham is unquestionably an authority on "Pot Roasts."

Canadian Minister to Washington

From Washington we learn that a Canadian minister to the United States is to be appointed in the near future, the announcement having been made there. Details given are particularly interesting and indicate that the Canadian representative at the United States Capitol will be an official of very considerable importance.

Not only will he have full charge of all matters wherein the interests of Canada are concerned, but in the event of the absence of the British ambassador he will be in charge of the whole British embassy and of the representation of Imperial as well as Canadian interests. In other words the man from the Dominion will be expected to act as the vice of the British ambassador, in a field of diplomacy not less wide than the British empire at the seat of government of the most important world power next to Britain.

This is more honor and dignity than most Canadians would have dared to hope for. We have long felt that owing to our close proximity to our southern neighbor, and the many matters of international import constantly cropping up between the two neighbor nations, it was desirable that we should have direct ambassadorial representation at Washington. Much as they might, it was not possible in every instance for the British representative at Washington to grasp the point of the more intimate and purely domestic questions arising between the two countries, and there have been times when we felt that we were not being served just as fairly as should be. With our own ambassador at Washington our international destiny, so far as the United States is concerned, will be in our own hands.

But the announcement tells us more than this. Our representative at the United States capital, housed in the British embassy, will on occasion be called on to assume the immense responsibilities that fall to the lot of the British ambassador. Evidently it is agreed that there will be no further imperial representation of Washington than these two. Other British dominions will continue as in the past, leaving their affairs with the United States in the hands of the British ambassador. He will have at his side the ambassador from Canada, the first Dominion in the empire, and when he is absent, the man from Canada will be in charge.

In the detail of this announcement there must come to the Canadian people the consciousness that for this important and responsible post we must select the very best man available. It is a post not for a politician, but a statesman; not necessarily for a maker of speeches or coiner of fine phrases, but a man of affairs, keen and alert, mentally, and with a thorough and wide grasp not only of Canadian business, but of the business of the whole empire. It will be well if parliament hesitates awhile before dealing finally with such an appointment. His selection is probably the most important matter the government will have to undertake in this year of grace, 1920.—Calgary Herald.

Country Strong Behind British Premier

By Windmere

London, May 10.—Liberalism of the Gladstone-Asquithian type practically disappears from British politics with last week's Liberal conferences at Glasgow. Twenty-eight Independent Liberal members of parliament, better known as "Asquithian Wee Frees," solemnly excommunicated 135 Coalition Liberal members, all of whom have been duly adopted by the local Liberal associations through all parts of the country. The humor of the situation is increased by the fact that the excommunication was pronounced just after the great industrial centre of Sunderland had re-elected the Coalition secretary, Sir Hamar Greenwood, by the swamping majority of 8,000 votes over Labor, while his Wee Free opponent failed to secure even one-eighth of the vote cast, and thus forfeited his $150 deposit.

Lloyd George who is rapidly recovering at the seaside resort of Hythe from a bronchial attack, returns to London on Thursday. He finds the course clear for his plans to found a new Liberal coalition organization throughout Great Britain, working in harmony with the Coalition Unionists for the next election, whenever that comes. It is significant to note, that at all recent contests only about half of the electors voted. Greatly enlarged are the electorates, especially the women not yet voting. They are still new in politics, but constitute a vast quantity which Labor has made valiant efforts to capture but in vain. They presumably care nothing for the old party labels, old party caucuses, or defunct pre-war issues.

It is to them that Lloyd George will devote his incomparable political magnetism when he breaks his two year's comparative silence and resumes his leadership in domestic issues. Mr. Garvin says, on this point, what most Coalition parliamentarians believe—that Lloyd George, as a master parliamentary speaker, has been demonstrated more and more. For more than six years full use of his incomparable power on the platform has been a missing factor in public affairs. There are million upon millions of new electors who have never heard him speak, who have never seen him at all. When he is liberated from foreign entanglements, his business will be to make himself personally known to the electors at large, and gain results, like Gladstone's electrifying appearance as a popular force between 1866 and 1868, or again in the Midlothian campaign of 1897.—Calgary Herald.

A Million Dollars to Boost Their Cause

Montreal, May 12.—A million dollar fund for the propaganda of the Canadian Manufacturers' association was foreshadowed tonight at the annual dinner of the Montreal branch. Among the guests were Col. W. Grant Morden, Sir James McKechnie, head of the Vickers firm, of England, and many of the business leaders of the province.

T. P. Howard, as president of the Dominion Manufacturers' association said that they had approached the government on the necessity for a scientific tariff board for Canada and stated that it would receive the support of 1,600 labor unions of Canada as well as the manufacturers and employers.

In a defense of great industrial mergers both here and in England Col. W. Grant Morden said that both he and his colleagues were at present giving great attention to a plan that would be announced in due course under which "we will give our employees not only an opportunity to participate in the success of industry, but also representation on our directorate."

Touching on the shipbuilding industry, Col Morden said the British Empire Steel Corporation was going to build ships. With the steel plants in Sydney and their wonderful facilities in having the railway material at hand, it was obvious that with ships, there would be a complete circle in industry which would make Canada quite independent.

British legislators and the British press are exercising a marvellous restraint with respect to that Irish resolution forwarded to Premier Lloyd George by members of the United States congress. If it had been forwarded as an expression of view from 80 private United States citizens it would have been explainable. Coming from that number of members of congress it was a bit of impertinence.

Aerial Taxi Companies in Western Canada

Ottawa, May 9.—No less than 17 aerial taxicab companies are being formed in Western Canada, and a number of these have been already licensed by the air board. Lieut.-Col. Scott, who has active charge of the certificates branch of the air board, has just returned from a tour of inspection of the west, and reports great activity and possibilities for very real development of commercial flying in that part of the Dominion. Six routes for trans-continental flights are established. The building of aerodromes is the important detail which has been neglected in Canada, Col. Scott points out.

Four commercial flying companies have been floated in Winnipeg, one will be formed in Brandon. An aerodrome is to be built at Virden, Man. There is one commercial flying company in Regina, one in Moose Jaw, two in Saskatoon, two in Edmonton, one in Hanna, Alta., one in Banff, and two in Vancouver.

Flying activity on Vancouver Island centers around the aerial league in Victoria. Commercial flying has been developed to a high standard on the Pacific coast, interest is keen, and the municipality of Vancouver is assisting the work in many ways, planning to establish a municipal aerodrome in the near future.—Calgary Herald.

Widows of Privates

The more that General McLean tries to explain the break he made in the pensions' committee in the house of commons, the worse it is for him. The first report was that he said that the widows of the privates were mostly servant girls and therefore the pensions should not be increased, or something to that effect. His explanation is somewhat involved or uncertain, and reads, "most of the private soldiers who married servant girls, were in that class who were earning their living before and evidently should continue to earn their living.

The statement that most of the privates had married servant girls was far from the truth. But the making of that statement was not nearly as serious as the contention which this man evidently makes, that because these women were working girls before they were married, that therefore they should not receive the same consideration in the way of a pension as the wife of any other soldier who died for his country.

The contention that the wife of a private, because she earned her own living before her marriage, should not receive the same consideration from the country, as the wife of a general or other officer, who lived in luxury before her marriage, is a bit of snobbery, which this country, unless we are much mistaken, is not in the humor to tolerate. The trouble arose when the government made a wide difference in the pensions of the wives of the privates and of the different ranks. That was undemocratic and unfair. The argument of General McLean is but an extension or an elaboration of that snobbish policy.—Morning Albertan.

According to latest reports from London, England, Sir Robert Borden is the most favored candidate for the post of Canadian Representative to Washington.

A Canadian Humorist

George T. Lanigan, one of the most brilliant writers that Canada has given to the world, was born at St Charles, near Three Rivers, in the Province of Quebec, on December 10, 1845. He died in Philadelphia, while on the staff of the Record, on February 5, 1886. In Montreal he attended the High School, where he became the favorite pupil and lifelong friend of George Murray, the famous classical teacher and poet. At about sixteen Lanigan took up telegraph, soon acquiring uncommon speed and accuracy, and forming a friendly rivalry with Thomas Alva Edison, he perfected a handwriting as legible as print. During the Fenian raid on Canada, in 1866, he sent important despatches to New York journals. In 1867 he established in Montreal, with Robert Graham and other friends, the Free Lance, a satirical weekly paper, largely directing its assaults upon the City Hall. From that little paper grew the Star of which Lanigan was the first editor, contributing a serial story, never reprinted. In 1870 Lanigan removed to the United States; in 1871 he was in Chicago on the fateful night of its great fire. Without a moment's delay he sped to South Chicago, took hold of the wire at a local office, and telegraphed the New York World a story such as appeared in no other newspaper of New York. Much of his raciest work was published in its pages, including his famous fables. These Fables, with pictures by F. C. Church, were issued as a booklet in 1878. A few days burned down, with almost the whole edition of that booklet. This accounts for its rarity: a decent copy easily commands ten dollars.

In person Lanigan was short, and in his later years inclined to stoutness, with a light fluffy beard. He was always the life and soul of every social gathering of his friends. To this day, both north and south of the Canadian frontier, his taking-off at but forty years is deeply mourned. He had barely begun to develop his rare gifts of wit and fun, satire and pathos. Two of his brothers survive: William B. Lanigan, of Winnipeg, and F. R. Lanigan of Montreal.

Kind-Hearted She-Elephant.

A kind-hearted she-elephant, while walking through the Jungle where the spicy breezes blow soft o'er Ceylon's Isle, heedlessly set foot upon a partridge, which she crushed to death within a few inches of the nest containing its callow brood. "Poor little things," said the generous mammoth, "I have been a mother myself and my affection shall atone for the consequences of my neglect." So saying she sat down upon the orphaned birds.

Moral.—The above teaches us what Home is Without a Mother; also, that it is not every person who should be entrusted with the care of an orphan asylum.

But Lanigan's most famous achievement, and one which seems to be permanently enshrined among the world's finest gems of parody, was his Threnody for the Akooned of Swat. One day he found that the only news item on his desk was that the Akhooned of Swat had said farewell to earth. Seizing his pen, Lanigan dashed off a few verses which soon were reprinted the world over:

A Threnody.

What, what, what,
What's the news from Swat?
Sad news,
Bad news,
Comes by the cable led
Through the Indian Ocean's bed,
Through the Persian Gulf, the Red Sea and the Med-
Iterraanean—he's dead.
The Akhooned is dead!

For the Akhoond I mourn,
Who would't?
He strove to disregard the message stern,

But he Akhoond't.
Dead, dead, dead;
(Sorrow Swats)
Swats who hae wi' Akhoond bled,
Swats whom he hath often led
Onward to a gory bed,
Or to victory,
As the case might be.
Sorrow Swats!

Tears shed,
Shed tears like water,
Your great Akhoond is dead!
That Swats matter!
Mourn, city of Swat,
Your great Akhoond is not,
But laid 'mid worms to rot.
His mortal part alone, his soul was caught.
(Because he was a good Akhoond)
Up to the bosom of Mahound.

Though earthly walls his frame surround
(Forever hallowed be the ground)
And skeptics mock the lowly mound
And say "He's now of no Akhoond!"
His soul is in the skies—
The azure skies that bend above his loved

Metropolis of Swat.
He sees with larger, other eyes,
Athwart all earthly mysteries—
He knows what's Swat.

Let Swat bury the great Akhoond
With a noise of mourning and lamentation!

Let Swat bury the great Akhoond
With the noise of the mourning of the Swatish nation!

Fallen is at length
Its tower of strength,
Its sun is dimmer ere it had nooned;
Dead lies the great Akhoond,
The great Akhoond of Swat
Is not!

Stop, Look, Listen; Use More Care

Tons of Steel are Harder to Stop Than Any Motor Car Made

Careless and thoughtless driving of motor cars have cost the lives of many people and millions of dollars damage since the auto came into general use in the United States and Canada. The railroads of both countries have been forced to pay large sums of money in damages.

It should be remembered by all drivers of motor cars that a train has to run on tracks and that a motor car has a certain amount of freedom in this regard. It should be remembered that a motor car can be stopped within a few feet while it often takes far more than one hundred yards for a train to stop. Always look before crossing a railroad and be sure to approach the crossing at a speed such that allows you perfect control of your machine.

The growing list of fatalities from motor cars is alarming. In the United States it has reached such a stage that the public is crying out against it and in some cities some novel plans of punishment have been put in force. In Chicago speeders are sentenced to make a slow trip through the morgue under guidance of a deputy coroner. In Youngstown, Ohio, speeders are sentenced to hold watch beside the dead body of their victim or at the hospital bedside of the injured victim. New York City makes the speeders go through practically the same procedure on arrest that they would the most daring criminal. Photographs and finger prints are taken and a "rogues" gallery is maintained.

Grand Jury Report

St. Louis gives a splendid example of how serious the public are considering this question. In that city a grand jury was in session for four months and two-thirds of a lengthy report submitted dealt with recommendations for the safety of the citizens of the city.

Undoubtedly much of these facts bear on accidents on streets of the different cities, nevertheless, it shows how public opinion is shaping in the United States in regard to careless drivers. There is no reason in the world why a driver of a motor car cannot proceed along a city street or a country road with full control of his machine. Automobiles are built for business and pleasure and not for the purpose of killing people but they are not fool proof and probably never will be.

The Chicago Tribune, printed an editorial recently as follows: "In emphasizing the great number of deaths and injuries caused by motor car accidents The Tribune is trying to bring home to the average motorist that a great majority of mishaps are the result of carelessness.

Pedestrians Careless

"It is an aphorism that an automobilist must not only watch himself but the other fellow as well. Drivers often are victims of the carelessness of others. And this is just as true of pedestrians as motorists.

"Too many pedestrians fail to observe the simple precaution of 'stop, look and listen.' Too many pedestrians insist upon personal privilege to the point of disastrous collision with an automobile. A motorist may plainly be beyond his rights by speeding, by thrusting his car over a crossing or by driving on the wrong side of the road. The fact that a motorist is guilty of gross law violation hardly compensates the pedestrian who insists in martyrdom to establish the legality of his position and the lawlessness of motorists.

"A pedestrian, haughtily conscious of his right to cross a street, will saunter casually, though the pavement be slippery, and though there is not the slightest assurance that the approaching motor, tons of steel, will not resist the brakes and skid down upon him. There is no question here of the pedestrian's rights; the motorist clearly may be at fault, but what principle has been reinforced after the pedestrian has been killed or injured?"

At Railway Crossings

Investigations have clearly shown that often motorists will not take proper precautions at railway crossings, appearing to act in practically the same manner as the pedestrian in the above quotation. They seem to forget that the train, thousands of tons of steel and wood, has perhaps gathered a momentum since its last stop that would either send the train tumbling into the ditch, killing many passengers and doing thousands of dollars of damage by the sudden application of brakes, or that it might skid far enough to mean death of all those in the motor car and the destruction of the car.

A swiftly moving train cannot stop as quickly as a motor car and a passenger train carries a heavier load of human freight than many motor cars can do. Motorists should constantly remember this. They should slow down and look for approaching trains. A few minutes at a railway crossing may save your life. It may save the lives of many passengers.

An engineer will probably be made unfit when he hits your motor car. Statistics prove that many engineers become physically unfit for their positions through just such accidents. It takes away their nerves.

U. S. A. Statistics

According to the annual report of the National Highway Protective Society, dated January 1, 1918, there were 455 persons killed by automobiles on the national highways of New York State, including New York city, in 1912, and 837 persons killed by automobiles on these highways in 1917—an increase of approximately 100 per cent. in five years. The Society's report furnishes proof, besides railroad experience records, that this railroad grade crossing slaughter was due to recklessness and the assisting companions who almost invariably accompany drivers, and that these are the factors to be dealt with vigorously and rigorously if there is to be a cessation of street and railroad grade crossing accidents.

The alarming increase in the number of accidents to motorists at highway crossings, with the attending shattering of the nerves of engineers and their incapacitation for the very responsible duties of their positions caused the Illinois Central Railroad Company sometime ago, to have observations made at certain highway crossings on their system for the purpose of noting the conduct of persons about to cross their track. It was seen that seventy-five per cent. of the people neither stopped, looked or listened for approaching trains but crossed the railway without apparently the slightest thought for the safety of either themselves or anyone else.

Mr. J. S. Lambert who is well known in Macleod as a contractor, is starting up in business again in the town, and is prepared to undertake any work in his line of business.

Watson, the wholesale wife murderer, has admitted that he slew his alleged Edmonton wife, which makes a total of seven that he remembers. Seeing there are twenty or more other victims of his whose whereabouts the authorities can not discover it is to be hoped the fellow's memory improves sufficiently to enable him to locate them all, living or dead. This much at least he owes to their relatives and friends.

Coming: The Mystery Man of India

That Khaym, the Mystery Man of India, who is to appear at Empress theatre for two days commencing Wed. May 26th is offering theatre goers something unusual will easily be proven when this man's offering is witnessed. Khaym is the son of American parents were attached to the U. S. Consular Service. Khaym's father, being the secretary to the Consul, was not transferred every time the presidents were changed so the first twelve years of Khaym's boyhood was spent amongst the natives of the far East.

He had for his playmates the little Hindu and Brahmin children and at an early age inculcated many of their peculiar beliefs and ideas. From this early start Khaym, through the aid of Yogi Philosophy and specially conducted research parties, has become a past master in the art of thought transmission. Answering as he does some three hundred questions at each performance, statistics have proven his replies are 99% correct.

Dr. Stanley may get Cabinet Position

An interesting development of Alberta provincial politics is a report that the name of Dr. G. D. Stanley, opposition member of the legislature for High River, has been mentioned as a possible successor to Hon. A. G. MacKay, the late minister of health and municipal affairs. Although of opposite politics, Dr. Stanley is possibly the one man in the present legislature of equal enthusiasm to the late minister in the promotion of health affairs, who never failed to support progressive health measures, regardless of their origin. Such a contingency as the appointment of an opposition member to this important portfolio in the cabinet is a consideration that would have been taken more in the light of a joke than anything else a few years ago. Times change, however, and the atmosphere of independence that characterized the recent legislative proceedings, laid the groundwork for almost any kind of a new move in provincial politics.

There is hardly any question but that the portfolio of health affairs requires special attention that can scarcely be given by even such an active minister as Hon. C. R. Mitchell, who already has his hands full with his duties as provincial treasurer and acting-premier, and now is required to handle the heavy department of municipal affairs as well as that of health. Premier Charles Stewart is absent in Ottawa at the present time, and no action could be taken, even if it were contemplated until his return.

Liberal Candidate Chosen for Athabasca

A convention was held in the town of Athabasca on Monday, May 10 for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the legislature, to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Hon. H. C. McKay.

The nomination went to George I. Mills a local man. The meeting was presided over by F. R. Faulkner, Mayor of the town, and Hon. T. L. Cote gave an address.

A mass meeting was held in the evening, when addresses on the provincial and local political situation Hon. J. L. Cote and Hon. J.R. Boyle, who had come up from the city for that purpose. The party convention passed two resolutions, one regretting the death of Mr. McKay, whose work on behalf of the constituency and the province at large had been done ably and in a statesmanlike manner, and one expressing confidence in the Stewart administration. Colonel J. K. Cornwall is running as an independent candidate.

A CONTRAST

A member of the British house of commons addressed this question to his government:

Will facilities be afforded for introducing a resolution expressing sympathy with the demand of the Filipinos for self-determination? Bonar Law, replying for the British government, answered that the question was one which did not concern Great Britain.

A member of the United States senate introduced an amendment to the peace treaty reservations, favoring the right of Ireland to have a government of its own choice.

The senate adopted the amendment.

The house of commons went on record against one nation interfering with the domestic affairs of another nation.

MODERN MACHINERY

has revolutionized the shoe repairing business and permits shoes to be repaired on machines like those on which they were built; this means the very best kind of shoe repairing and is as far ahead of the old style hand work as the electric light is ahead of the old-fashioned candle. Quicker and better. Cheaper too.

Wheat, flour and bread are three commodities of life that are to be increased in price within a short time, the two former at once. The guess of men who should know is that wheat will be $3 a bushel before the year ends. In the interests of the consumer as well as that of the producer, it would be well if the government continued control of the sale of this cereal for at least another year.
